Energy Efficiency Incentive Ratemaking Mechanism

On February 4, 2009, the California Public Utilities Commission (CPUC) published its final order, approved on January 29, 2009, to begin a new rulemaking proceeding to review and modify the CPUC's existing energy efficiency incentive ratemaking mechanism applicable to Pacific Gas and Electric Company (Utility) and the other two California investor-owned utilities. The CPUC ruled that the utilities' remaining 2006-2008 interim claims will be determined in the new proceeding rather than being assessed based on the CPUC Energy Division's draft verification report of the utilities' 2006-2007 interim claims (which was to have been issued by resolution by January 15, 2009). The utilities must file their reports of their 2008 energy efficiency activities and costs by February 28, 2009.

The CPUC stated that it is necessary to consider a more transparent, more streamlined and less controversial incentive ratemaking mechanism and that accomplishing this may require making small but significant changes to the existing mechanism, or may require wholesale adoption of a new incentive mechanism. The CPUC stated that it intends to develop a new framework for the interim review of 2008 energy efficiency activities and the final review of 2006 through 2008 energy efficiency activities in a timeframe consistent with interim payments for 2008 no later than December 2009, and any final payments for 2006 through 2008 no later than December 2010. The CPUC also intends to develop a long-term framework for energy efficiency activities in 2009 and beyond.

On February 2, 2009, The Utility Reform Network and the CPUC's Division of Ratepayer Advocates filed an application for rehearing of the CPUC's December 18, 2008 decision approving interim incentive awards for the utilities. Among other arguments, they claim that the CPUC was not justified in modifying the incentive mechanism process by using unverified claims as a basis for awarding incentive earnings and that the impact of the delay in issuing the verification report was not sufficient to justify a modification to the CPUC's established process. Responses to the application for rehearing are due February 17, 2009. PG&E Corporation and the Utility do not believe that the application for rehearing will affect the Utility's award of $41.5 million in interim shareholder incentive revenues that was approved by the CPUC on December 18, 2008.
