PART I.

ITEM 1. BUSINESS.

Introduction.

Internet Business's International, Inc. ("Company") is a broad based Internet company that provides goods and services over the Internet to businesses and consumers though three operating divisions: (1) ISP (Internet Service Provider); (2) On-line Lending; and (3) Direct Marketing.

Our corporate mission is one of unification and synergy. We accomplish this mission by empowering our operating divisions with the benefits of top-notch administration and management, and enabling economies of scale by aggregating many business functions. The Company's vision is to build a word-class on-line enterprise that is many times the sum of its parts.

History of the Business.

International Food and Beverage was listed for exchange on the Over The Counter Bulletin Board in June 1988. This company operated in the food services industry until late 1997, at which time it ceased operations. This firm remained dormant until December of 1998. At that time new management was put in place, and a decision was made to move the Company's focus to the Internet and change the Company's name to Internet Business's International, Inc.

On January 1, 1999 the newly named company began to offer goods and services over the Internet, starting with the development of an on-line B2C (business to consumer) e-retail site, AuctionWinner.com, The site was launched in April 1999. In July 1999, the Company expanded their service offerings by acquiring an ISP (Internet Service Provider) by the name of LA Internet. The Company changed its domicile from Delaware to Nevada in same year.

Current Operations.

The Company currently operates three reporting divisions:

(1) ISP (which includes a national dial-up ISP; a wireless high speed ISP in Las Vegas, NV, Moreno Valley, CA and Woodland, CA; and Internet web design and hosting businesses.)

(2) On-line Lending (which includes real estate loans and equipment leasing.) Before the end of the fiscal year this division was closed and the Company is now reviewing its options regarding this division.

(3) Direct Marketing (which includes the direct marketing of long distance phone services, computers with Internet access, wireless high speed Internet access and bandwidth.)

The Company has 3 offices in the US and 1 in Europe and more than 20 employees.

Operating Divisions

Guarantee approved and funded loans according to Freddie Mac and Fannie Mae conforming and non-conforming underwriting criteria. Institutions such as RFC, Sun Trust and Internist, may purchase "bulk" loans from Guarantee.

Revenue was generated through loan fees, processing fees, and yields based upon interest earned over the life of the loan and the cost of the funds.

Corporate
Las Vegas, Nevada, Los Angeles, California

The Company maintains an administration and support group in Nevada and California. The group supports the operating divisions and administrates the public filings and financial statements. This office has 3 employees.

Market and Competition.

The market for Internet products and services is highly competitive. Taking into consideration the advances Internet technology and the ubiquity simple web site provide, there are no substantial barriers to entry in this market, and management expects that competition will continue to intensify. Negative competitive developments could have a material adverse effect on the Company's business and on the trading price of its stock.

The majority of the Company revenue came from on-line loans until December 2001, when the mortgage lending on line subsidiary was closed. The main revenue for the Company is currently for the Internet services provide by the Company. The Company competes with many other companies that offer the same type of Internet-only services we offer - such as ISP services. The Company competes with its direct marketing division with many other similar direct marketing companies.

As the Company expands the scope of its Internet services, it will compete directly with a greater number of Internet sites and other similar type of companies across a wide range of different on-line and off-line services. The Company also competes in vertical markets where competitors may have advantages in expertise, brand recognition, and other factors. Many companies offer directly competitive products or services information and community services, including, among others: America On-line; Yahoo; InfoSeek Corporation; Lycos, and Microsoft Corporation (msn.com).

During the past 12 months, there have been a number of business failures that have negatively impacted Internet Companies. Of note are the Excite at Home, MCI and Covad bankruptcies. Strategic alliances of companies have also impacted the Internet market place for example the SBC and Yahoo alliance where SBC offers DSL service to Yahoo customers. Also the mergers of the past years which include: Walt Disney Company acquiring a significant interest in InfoSeek; AOL acquiring Time Warner and Netscape; and AT&T, acquiring cable television infrastructure with the acquisition of Media One, have impacted the Internet Companies. When you include the general down turn in the market place due to the disclosure of accounting irregularities by major public companies such as Enron and AOL, which adds to the negative impact in the stock market overall.

These occurrences have also impacted the availability of funds for all Companies seeking expansion capital. The Company cannot determine that funds needed by the Company for expansion would be available when required. It is all so noted that competitors of the Company are significantly larger or better established than the Company. As a result, each of them will have access to significantly greater financial, marketing and, in certain cases, technical resources than the Company.

These and other competitors are expected to continue to make substantial marketing expenditures to promote their on-line properties. The Company may be required to increase its sales and marketing expenditures significantly in response to these efforts, which may materially impair its operating results and may not be a success.

Management believes that the principal competitive factors in its markets are: brand recognition; ease of use; comprehensiveness; personalization; independence; quality and responsiveness of search results and other services; the availability of high-quality, targeted content and focused value-added products and services; access to end users; and with respect to advertisers and sponsors, the number of users, duration and frequency of visits, and user demographics. Competition among current and future suppliers of Internet information, communication, community and commerce services, high-traffic web sites and ISPs, as well as competition with other media for advertising placements, could result in reductions revenues. (See chart below)

The following divisions have direct competition as follows;

Sector	Subsidiary	Competition	Stock Symbol
ISP
Dialup	2x access	Internet America	(geek, OTCBB)
Wireless	2x wireless	Go America	(goam, NASD)
Web design	2x development	Genesis Intermedia	(gene, OTCBB)
On-line Lending
Mortgages	Guarantee Capital	Electronic Mortgage	(embi, OTCBB)
Leasing	Discount On-line Leasing	leaseforce.com	N/A
Direct Marketing	1st2 Market	directoneusa.com	N/A

The Company also faces competition with respect to the acquisition of strategic businesses and technologies. Many of its existing competitors, as well as a number of potential new competitors, have significantly greater financial, technical, marketing and distribution resources than the Company does. In addition, providers of Internet tools and services may be acquired by, receive investments from, or enter into other commercial relationships with larger, well-established and well-financed companies, such as Microsoft and AOL. In addition, well-established traditional media companies may acquire, invest or otherwise establish commercial relationships with its competitors. These larger companies may use their substantial media resources to promote and enhance their own services. Greater competition resulting from such relationships could have a materially adverse effect on the Company's business.

Strategic Alliance and Agreement.

The recent alliance of the Company with MCI has increased the companies and its subsidiaries' ability to offer high speed DSL service national through this s agreement.

Marketing Plans.

The Company competes with other on-line services, web site operators and advertising networks, as well as traditional off-line media such as television, radio and print to convey to the consumer the services and products that are offered by the Company. The Company has used Print, Radio, and Television to inform the public and consumer of these products and services. Accordingly, the Company may face increased pricing pressure for the purchase of advertisement space. The Company therefore has also developed alternative marketing plans that uses direct marketing, cross promotion and bundling of services and products to increase its client base

Proprietary Rights.

The Company regards its copyrights, trademarks, trade dress, trade secrets, and similar intellectual property as critical to its success. The Company relies upon trademark and copyright law, trade secret protection and confidentiality or license agreements with its employees, customers, partners and others to protect its proprietary rights. Effective trademark, copyright, and trade secret protection may not be available in every country in which its products and media properties are distributed or made available through the Internet. The distinctive elements of the Company's web sites may not be protected under copyright law. Management cannot guarantee that the steps the Company has taken to protect its proprietary rights will be adequate. Many parties are actively developing communication, community, e-commerce, and other web-related technologies. Management believes that such parties will continue to take steps to protect these technologies, including seeking patent protection. As a result, management believes that disputes regarding the ownership of such technologies are likely to arise in the future. For example, management is aware that a number of patents have been issued in the areas of electronic commerce, on-line auctions, web-based information, on-line direct marketing, fantasy sports, common web graphics formats and mapping technologies. Management anticipates that additional third-party patents will be issued in the future. From time to time these parties may assert patent infringement claims against the Company. Management cannot guarantee that it would be able to license such patents on reasonable terms. The Company may incur expenses in defending against third-party patent claims regardless of the merit of such claims. In the event that there is a determination that the Company has infringed such third-party patent rights, the Company could incur monetary liability and be prevented from using the rights in the future.

Employees.

As of the date of this filing, the Company had over 20 employees. This is a reduction from the same time last year when the company had 60 employees. The reduction of the employees was due to the changes made December 1, 2001 with the staff reductions in the ISP division; mortgage lending division and the direct marketing division. The Company's future success is substantially dependent on the performance of its senior management and key technical personnel, and its continuing ability to attract and retain highly qualified technical and managerial personnel.

Risk Factors.

In addition to the other information in this Report, the following particular risk factors may be encountered in the operation of the Company under its current plan of business:

(a) Limited Operating History.

The Company has only begun operations as an Internet company since January 1, 1999. Therefore, the Company has a limited operating history, and its prospects are subject to the risks, expenses and uncertainties frequently encountered by young companies that operate exclusively in the new and rapidly evolving markets for Internet products and services. Successfully achieving its growth plan depends on, among other things, the Company's: ability to continue to develop and extend its brand; ability to develop new web site properties; ability to maintain and increase the levels of traffic on its internet properties; development or acquisition of services or products equal or superior to those of the Company's competitors; ability to effectively generate revenues through sponsored services and placements on the Company's internet web site properties; ability to effectively integrate the technology and operations of businesses or technologies which the company may acquire; ability to successfully develop and offer new personalized web-based services, such as e-mail services, to consumers without errors or interruptions in service; and ability to identify, attract, retain and motivate qualified personnel. Furthermore, the success of the Company's growth plan depends on factors outside its control including, among other things: the adoption by the market of the web as an E-Commerce medium; the successful sale of web-based services by the Company's sales agents; and the relative price stability for web-based services and products, despite competition and other factors that could reduce market prices. The Company may not be successful in implementing its growth plan or continuing to operate its business as anticipated.

(b) Operating Results May Fluctuate.

The Company expects to derive the majority of its revenues from a variety of revenue sources, which are difficult to forecast accurately. As noted above, the Company expects its operating expenses to increase significantly over the near term. To the extent its expenses increase but its revenues do not, its business, operating results, and financial condition will be materially and adversely affected. Operating results may fluctuate significantly in the future as a result of a variety of factors, many of which are outside its control. These factors include: the level of usage of the Company's Internet sites, and the demand for the products and services that the Company offers over the Internet, the amount and timing of capital expenditures and other costs relating to the expansion of its operations; the introduction of new products or services by the Company or its competitors; pricing changes for internet-based services, the timing of initial set-up, engineering or development fees that may be paid in connection with larger area distribution arrangements; technical difficulties with respect to the online web site properties that the Company may develop; costs incurred with respect to acquisitions; negative general economic conditions and resulting effects on economic conditions specific to the internet and online media.

A key element of the Company's strategy is to generate revenues through services and products from its online media properties and its direct marketing operations. In connection with these, the Company will receive fees as well as a portion of transaction revenues received by business that is originated through the Company sites. This type of revenue generation exposes the Company to potentially significant financial risks, including: the risk that the Company fails to obtain the minimum level of revenue required to maintain the operational expenses of the Company.

(c) Dependence on Continued Growth in Use of the Internet; Technological Change.

The Company's future success is dependent upon continued growth in the use of the Internet and the web in order to support the sale of its products and services and its online web site properties. The Companies Internet businesses are relatively new, and it is difficult to predict the extent of further growth, if any, in from these sites. The Internet may not prove to be a viable commercial marketplace for a number of reasons, including lack of acceptable security technologies, potentially inadequate development of the necessary infrastructure, or timely development and commercialization of performance improvements. To the extent that the Internet continues to experience significant growth in the number of users and level of use, the Internet infrastructure may not be able to support the demands placed upon it by such growth and the performance or reliability of the web may be adversely affected.

The market for Internet products and services is characterized by rapid technological developments, evolving industry standards and customer demands, and frequent new product introductions and enhancements. To the extent that higher bandwidth internet access becomes more widely available through cable modems or other technologies, the Company may be required to make significant changes to the design and content of its online properties in order to compete effectively. Failure to effectively adapt to these or any other technological developments may adversely affect its business, operating results, and financial condition.

The markets for the Company's products and services have only recently begun to develop, are rapidly evolving, and are increasingly competitive. Demand and market acceptance for recently introduced products and services are subject to a high level of uncertainty and risk. It is difficult for management to predict whether, or how fast, these markets will grow. The Company cannot guarantee either that the market for its products and services will continue to develop or that demand for its products and services will be sustainable. If the market develops more slowly than expected or becomes saturated with competitors, or if its products and services do not sustain market acceptance, its business, operating results, and financial condition may be materially and adversely affected.

(d) Risks Associated with Brand Development.

The Company believes that establishing and maintaining its brand is a critical aspect of its efforts to attract and expand its user base. Management also believes that the importance of brand recognition will increase due to the growing number of Internet sites and the relatively low barriers to entry. Promotion and enhancement of the Company's brand will depend largely on its success in providing high-quality products and services. In order to attract and retain Internet users and to promote and maintain its brand, the Company may find it necessary to increase expenditures devoted to creating and maintaining brand loyalty. In the event of any breach or alleged breach of security or privacy involving its services, or if any third party undertakes illegal or harmful actions utilizing its community, communications or commerce services, the Company could suffer substantial adverse publicity and impairment of its brand and reputation. If the Company is unable to provide high-quality products and services or otherwise fails to promote and maintain its brand, or if it incurs excessive expenses in an attempt to improve its products and services or promote and maintain its brand, its business, operating results, and financial condition may be materially and adversely affected.

(e) Possible Inability to Successfully Enhance or Develop Properties.

To remain competitive, the Company must continue to enhance and improve the functionality, features, and content of its web site properties. The Company may not be able to successfully maintain competitive user response times or implement new features and functions, which will involve the development of increasingly complex technologies. Personalized information services, such as its web-based email messaging services, message boards, and other community features, require significant expense. The Company cannot guarantee that additional revenues from these services will offset this additional expense.

A key element of its business strategy is the development and introduction of new particular demographic characteristics, and geographic areas. The Company may not be successful in developing, introducing, and marketing such web site properties and such properties may not achieve market acceptance, enhance its brand name recognition, or increase user traffic. Furthermore, enhancements of or improvements to the Company's new properties may contain undetected errors that require significant design modifications, resulting in a loss of customer confidence and user support and a decrease in the value of its brand name. Its ability to successfully develop additional targeted media properties depends on use of the Company to promote such properties. If use of the Company's web site properties does not continue to grow, its ability to establish other targeted properties would be adversely affected. If the Company fails to effectively develop and introduce such new properties, or such properties fail to achieve market acceptance, its business, results of operations, and financial condition may be adversely affected.

(f) Management of Potential Growth and Integration of Acquisitions.

The Company's growth may place substantial strains on its financial systems and its systems to train and manage its employee base. The process of managing large, high traffic web sites is an increasingly important and complex task. This relies on both internal and licensed third-party management and analysis systems. To the extent that the Company does not have the appropriate inventory or any extended failure of its management system results "make good" obligations with its customers, which, could defer revenues. Failure of its management systems to effectively scale to higher levels of use or to effectively track and provide accurate and timely E-Commerce reports and also could negatively affect its relationships with its customers. The Company's systems, procedures, or controls may not be adequate to support its operations, particularly with regard to support and service. Its management may not be able to achieve the rapid execution necessary to fully exploit its market opportunity. Any inability to effectively manage growth may have a materially adverse effect on its business, operating results, and financial condition.

As part of its business strategy, the Company may, from time to time, make acquisitions or enter into other forms of business combinations. These transactions are accompanied by a number of risks, including: the difficulty of assimilating the operations and personnel of the acquired companies; the potential disruption of its ongoing business and distraction of management; the difficulty of incorporating acquired technology or content and rights into its products and media properties; the correct assessment of the relative percentages of in-process research and development expense which can be immediately written off as compared to the amount which must be amortized over the appropriate life of the asset; the failure to successfully develop an acquired in-process technology could result in the impairment of amounts currently capitalized as intangible assets; unanticipated expenses related to technology integration; the maintenance of uniform standards, controls, procedures and policies; the impairment of relationships with employees and customers as a result of any integration of new management personnel; and the potential unknown liabilities associated with acquired businesses. The Company may not be successful in addressing these risks or any other problems encountered in connection with such acquisitions.

(g) Risk of Capacity Constraints and Systems Failures.

The Company is dependent on its ability to effectively withstand a high volume of use of its online web site properties. Accordingly, the performance of its online web site properties is critical to its reputation, its ability to attract advertisers to its web sites, and to achieve market acceptance of its products and web site properties. Any system failure that causes an interruption or an increase in response time of its products and media properties could result in less traffic to its web sites and, if sustained or repeated, could reduce the attractiveness of its products and media properties to advertisers and licensees. An increase in the volume of queries conducted through its products and media properties could strain the capacity of the software or hardware the Company has deployed, which could lead to slower response time or system failures. In addition, as the number of web pages and users increase, its products and media properties and infrastructure may not be able to scale accordingly. Personalized information services, such as web-based email-type messaging services and other community and communication facilities, and the posting of photographs on its auction properties, involve increasingly complex technical and operational challenges that may strain its development and operational resources. The Company may not be able to successfully implement and scale such services to the extent required by any growth in the number of users of such services. Failure to do so may affect the goodwill of users of these services, or negatively affect its brand and reputation.

The Company is dependent on third parties for much of its technology and infrastructure. The Company's operations are susceptible to outages due to fire, floods, power loss, telecommunications failures, break-ins, and similar events. The Company does have multiple site capacity, which would reduce the impact in the event of any such occurrence. Despite its implementation of network security measures, its servers are vulnerable to computer viruses, break-ins, and similar disruptions from unauthorized tampering with its computer systems. The Company does not carry business interruption insurance to compensate for losses that may occur as a result of any of these events. Such events may have a materially adverse effect on its business, operating results, and financial condition.

(h) Government Regulation and Legal Uncertainties.

There are currently few laws or regulations directly applicable to Internet access or to commerce on the net. Due to the increasing popularity and use of the internet, it is possible that laws and regulations may be adopted, covering issues such as user privacy, defamation, pricing, taxation, content regulation, quality of products and services, and intellectual property ownership and infringement. Such legislation could expose the Company to substantial liability. Such legislation could also dampen the growth in use of the web, decrease the acceptance of the web as a communications and commercial medium, or require the Company to incur significant expense in complying with any new regulations. In addition, several telecommunications carriers, including America's Carriers' Telecommunications Association, are seeking to have telecommunications over the web regulated by the Federal Communications Commission in the same manner as other telecommunications services.

Because the growing popularity and use of the web has burdened the existing telecommunications infrastructure and many areas with high web use have begun to experience interruptions in phone service, local telephone carriers, such as Pacific Bell, have petitioned the FCC to regulate ISPs and Sops and to impose access fees. Increased regulation or the imposition of access fees could substantially increase the costs of communicating on the web, potentially decreasing the demand for its products and media properties. A number of proposals have been made at the federal, state and local level that would impose additional taxes on the sale of goods and services through the Internet. Such proposals, if adopted, could substantially impair the growth of electronic commerce, and could adversely affect the Company's opportunity to derive financial benefit from such activities.

The Digital Millennium Copyright Act, which is intended to reduce the liability of online service providers for listing or linking to third-party web sites that include materials that infringe copyrights. Also the Children's Online Protection Act and the Children's Online Privacy Act, which will restrict the distribution of certain materials deemed harmful to children and impose additional restrictions on the ability of online services to collect user information from minors. Further, Congress recently passed (and the President has signed into law) the Protection of Children from Sexual Predators Act, which mandates that electronic communication service providers report facts or circumstances from which a violation of child pornography laws is apparent. The Company is currently reviewing these pieces of legislation, and cannot currently predict the effect, if any, that such legislation will have on its business. There can be no assurance that such legislation will not impose significant additional costs on its business or subject the Company to additional liabilities.

In addition, a number of other countries have announced or are considering additional regulation. For example, the European Commission privacy directive restricts the use of personal information without the consent of both the individual and that individual's government. Such restrictions could jeopardize the future of e-commerce in and with the European Union. In addition, the European Commission is expected in the near future to propose a directive concerning the liability of online service providers for activities that take place using their services. Such laws and regulations could fundamentally impair the Company's ability to provide Internet services, or substantially increase the cost of doing so. Moreover, the applicability to the Internet of existing laws governing issues such as property ownership, copyright, defamation, obscenity, and personal privacy is uncertain. The Company may be subject to claims that its services violate such laws. Any such new legislation or regulation in the United States or abroad or the application of existing laws and regulations to the Internet could have a material adverse effect on its business, operating results, and financial condition. Due to the global nature of the web, it is possible that the governments of other states and foreign countries might attempt to regulate its transmissions or prosecute the Company for violations of their laws. The Company might unintentionally violate such laws. Such laws may be modified, or new laws enacted, in the future. Any such developments may have a materially adverse effect on its business, results of operations, and financial condition.

(i) Liability for the Company's Services.

The Company hosts a wide variety of information, community, communications and commerce services that enable individuals to exchange information, generate content, conduct business and engage in various online activities. The laws relating to the liability of providers of these online services for activities of their users are currently unsettled. Claims could be made against the Company for defamation, negligence, copyright or trademark infringement, personal injury or other theories based on the nature and content of information that may be posted online by its users. Such claims have been brought, and sometimes successfully pressed, against online service providers in the past. In addition, the Company could be exposed to liability through content and materials that may be posted by users in auctions, message boards, clubs, chat rooms, or other interactive community-building services. Such claims might include, among others, that by providing hypertext links to web sites operated by third parties, the Company is liable for copyright or trademark infringement or other wrongful actions by such third parties through such web sites, or that the Company is responsible for legal injury caused by statements made to, actions taken by or content generated by, participants in its message board services, clubs, or other community building services. It is also possible that if any information that may, in the future, be provided through its services, such as stock quotes, analyst estimates or other trading information contains errors, third parties could make claims against the Company for losses incurred in detrimental reliance on such information. The Company offers web-based e-mail type messaging services, which expose it to potential risks, such as liabilities or claims resulting from lost or misdirected messages, illegal or fraudulent use of messages, or interruptions or delays in messaging services. Investigating and defending such claims are expensive, even to the extent such claims do not result in liability.

The Company may also, from time to time, enter into arrangements to offer third-party products and services under the Company's brand or via distribution on its properties. While its agreements with these parties would provide that the Company would be indemnified against liabilities, such indemnification may not be adequate. The Company may be subject to claims concerning such services or content by virtue of its involvement in marketing, branding or providing access to such services. ITEM 7. MANAGEMENT'S DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS OF FINANCIAL CONDITION AND RESULTS OF OPERATIONS.

The following discussion should be read in conjunction with the financial statements of the Company and notes thereto contained elsewhere in this report.

Results of Operations.

(a) Comparison by Segment

In accordance with SFAS No. 131, "Disclosure about Segments of an Enterprise and Related Information," management has determined that there are three reportable segments based on the customers served by each segment: Full service internet service provider (ISP), mortgage banking business (which ceased operation in June 2002), and business-to-consumer ("B2C") provider. Such determination was based on the level at which executive management reviews the results of operations in order to make decisions regarding performance assessment and resource allocation.

Full service Internet service provider serves customers requiring Internet access in the western United States through dial-up, and high-speed wireless; web hosting and web design. Mortgage banking business includes online mortgage loan origination, processing, servicing and resales, (which ceased operations in June 2002). Business-to-consumer provider primarily consists of cellular phone service origination fees and sales.

Certain general expenses related to advertising and marketing, information systems, finance and administrative groups are not allocated to the operating segments and are included in "other" in the reconciliation of operating income reported below. The accounting policies of the segments are the same as those described in the summary of significant accounting policies (see Note 2).

Information on reportable segments is as follows:

Fiscal Year Ended	June 30 2002	June 30 2001

Net sales	$ 5,895,586	$ 7,206,667
Operating income	$ (426,221)	$ 793,517

(b) Comparison of Year to Year.

(1) Fiscal 2002 Compared to Fiscal 2001

Revenues for the twelve-month period ended June 30, 2002 of $5,895,586 decreased approximately 18.2% when compared with revenues $7,206,667 of in the prior year. This revenue decrease is due to the Company's ISP loss of revenue for the following reasons; from the dial-up, due to attrition and the Company not actively seeking additional dial-up accounts, hosting and web design account due to a vast number of clients either going out of business and or reducing it's expenditures for internet related activities. The mortgage loan originations increased in revenue and reported a profit for the year even though the mortgage lending division only operated through the end of December 2001. Even with those factor both the ISP and the Mortgage division reported a profit for those divisions. The direct marketing division continues to loss money and the associated cost of corporate operations produced the net loss for the fiscal year.

The resulting loss for the twelve-month period ended June 30, 2002 of ($426,221) was a significant decrease when compared to the net income of $793,517 reported for the year ended June 30, 2001. An additional $1,005,970 profit generate form the sale of the e-commerce division which reduced the loss for the year and is outside the norm of revenue sources for the Company and is not representative of on going source of revenue for the Company.

(2) Fiscal 2001 Compared to Fiscal 2000

Revenues for the twelve-month period ended June 30, 2001 of $7,206,667 increased approximately 308.7% when compared with revenues of $2,332,848 in the prior year. This revenue increase is due to the Company's ISP and mortgage loan originations increase in revenue. The ISP wireless division demand for services and the increase in web hosting and design, along with low interest rates for mortgage loans. The mortgage interest rates since March 2001 have remained in the range of 6% to 7% though the beginning of September 2001 and it is expected that rates will remain in this range throughout the end of 200. It must be noted that prime interest rates are beyond the Company's control. It is widely acknowledged that low rates encourage consumers to take out mortgages for the purchase of homes and this condition has impacted our business favorably. Aside from lower interest rates, several other factors contributed to the increase in mortgage loans:

(A) The on-line lending division increased their amount of Internet marketing over last year. This change contributed to a lower cost of sales and increased the total audience that viewed their ads.

(B) The online lending division incorporated new Loan Application Management software to automate loan applications. The result was higher productivity per customer sales representative and faster loan approval / decline times.

(C) The online lending division employed a Direct Underwriting System. The division enjoyed quicker approval times due to this system.

Other factors that contributed to the increase in revenue include:

(A) The Company's subsidiary ISP division began operations of BeyonDSL (its wireless Internet service provider) in April 2000. We began to reach a critical mass of customers in this fiscal year's reporting period.

(B) LA Internet integrated an automated billing system into their operations. This allowed us more timely and comprehensive statements.

(C) Our eCommerce division added a number of high-ticket products and sales were better than expected.

(D) Our Direct marketing division began marketing an additional offer our long distance savings product.

Selling, general and administrative expenses for the 2001 fiscal year of $ 5.92 million were an increase 222% over the $3.1 million for the previous fiscal year 2000. The Company invested in a number of infrastructure and systems upgrades in order to automate key business functions. The upgrades came at substantial costs but were off set by the increase in revenues.

The resulting profit for the twelve-month period ended June 30, 2001 of $106,908 was a significant increase when compared to the loss of ($2,596,444) reported for the year ended June 30, 2000. An additional $686,608 profit generate form the sale of a company investment in stock is outside the norm of revenue sources for the Company and is not representative of on going source of revenue for the Company.

(3) Fiscal 2000 Compared to Fiscal 1999

Revenues for the twelve-month period ended June 30, 2000 of $2,332,848 increased approximately 1,658.7% when compared with revenues of $140,641 in the prior year. This revenue increase is due to the acquisitions made by the Company since the end of its last fiscal year.

General and administrative expenses for the 2000 fiscal year were approximately 378% greater then those of fiscal year 1999 due to the increase of operations of the Company.

The resulting net loss after taxes for the twelve-month period ended June 30, 2000 was $2,596,444 versus a reported loss for the year ended June 30, 1999 of $81,836. This loss primarily resulted from the acquisitions and investments made in the fourth quarter of this fiscal year.

(4) Fiscal 1999 Compared To Fiscal 1998

Revenues for the twelve-month period ended June 30, 1999 of $140,641 decreased approximately 94% when compared with revenues of $2,378,000 in the prior year. This revenue decrease in due to the shut down of Company operations and closing of the business on January 18, 1998, and the reopening of the business after the acquisition of the Company by the current control group in November 1998.

Selling, general and administrative expenses for the 1999 fiscal year were approximately 25% those of fiscal year 1998 due to the slowdown of operations of the Company approaching the close of operations as of January 1, 1998 and the subsequent reopening of the company in another industry.

The resulting loss for the twelve-month period ended June 30, 1999 was $81,836 versus a reported loss for the year ended June 30, 1998 of $1,160,542. The Company had extraordinary income resulting from the Company extinguishing debt and recognized it as extraordinary income (see Note 7. Extraordinary Item of the footnotes to the attached financials).

Inflation.

The moderate rate of inflation over the past few years has had an insignificant impact on the Company's sales and results of operations during the period.

Liquidity and Capital Resources.

Net cash provided by operation of $60,315 for twelve-month period ended June 30, 2002 was a significant reduction in cash when compared to the cash balance of $258,019 for the twelve-month period ended June 30, 2001. The company plans for expansion of the wireless Internet interstructure has been put on hold and the Company is currently seeking alternative sources of capital to so the Company can resume adding additional wireless Internet clients. With the current slow down U.S. economy the Companies plan for the expansion of the wireless Internet have been stopped and will not be resumed until additional sources of capital are obtained by the Company.

Capital Expenditures.

There were several capital expenditures during the 2002 fiscal year, which includes purchase of additional servers and wireless Internet equipment purchased for 2X Inc.

Net Operating Loss Carry forwards.

For the fiscal year ended June 30, 2002, the Company had net operating loss carry forwards for federal and state purposes of approximately $2,009,299 and $1,0372,097 respectively. These carry forwards begin to expire in 2014 and 2004, respectively.

Forward Looking Statements.

The foregoing Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations contains "forward looking statements" within the meaning of Rule 175 under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, and Rule 3b-6 under the Securities Act of 1934, as amended, including statements regarding, among other items, the Company's business strategies, continued growth in the Company's markets, projections, and anticipated trends in the Company's business and the industry in which it operates. The words "believe," "expect," "anticipate," "intends," "forecast," "project," and similar expressions identify forward-looking statements. These forward-looking statements are based largely on the Company's expectations and are subject to a number of risks and uncertainties, certain of which are beyond the Company's control. The Company cautions that these statements are further qualified by important factors that could cause actual results to differ materially from those in the forward looking statements, including, among others, the following: reduced or lack of increase in demand for the Company's products, competitive pricing pressures, changes in the market price of ingredients used in the Company's products and the level of expenses incurred in the Company's operations. In light of these risks and uncertainties, there can be no assurance that the forward-looking information contained herein will in fact transpire or prove to be accurate. The Company disclaims any intent or obligation to update "forward looking statements."

ITEM 7A. QUANTITATIVE AND QUALITATIVE DISCLOSURES ABOUT MARKET RISK

Market risk generally represents the risk of loss that may result from the potential change in the value of a financial instrument due to fluctuations in interest rates. Market risk is inherent to both derivative and non-derivative financial instruments, and accordingly, the scope of the Company's market risk management includes all market risk sensitive financial instruments.

The Company uses several tools and risk management strategies to monitor and address interest rate risk. Such tools allow the Company to monitor and evaluate its exposure to these risks and to manage the risk profile of its residual interest portfolio in response to changes in the market risk.

The Company measured the sensitivity of the current value of cost of funds (Prime Rate plus 1.5%) to changes in the mortgage interest rate (bond market plus 1.5%) that the Company charges on funded loans, which is reflected with changes in interest rates. The difference in the cost of funds versus the rate the Company funded the mortgage loans could have benefited the company because the cost of funds was less the mortgage interest rate, or the Company could loss money if the cost of funds was more than the mortgage interest rate.

The following table summarizes the sensitivity analysis of change in the fair value of our cost of funds as compared to the residual interests as of June 30, 2002 and June 30, 2001:

	Change In Fair Value As of:
	June 30 2002	June 30 2001
Prime Rate	4.750%	6.750%
Our Cost of Funds	1.500%	1.500%
Total	6.250%	8.250%
Bond Market	4.800%	5.331%
Consumer Cost of Funds	1.500%	1.500%
Total	6.300%	6.831%
Net Impact Benefit (Loss)	0.050%	(1.419)%

INTERNET BUSINESS'S INTERNATIONAL, INC.
NOTES TO CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

1. Description of Business and Change in Control

Prior to December 31, 1997, Internet Business's International, Inc. (the "Company") was in the food product manufacturing business formerly known as "International Food and Beverage, Inc.". In November 1998, new stockholders bought majority control from the previous Chief Executive Officer through a private transaction. Immediately thereafter, the former CEO resigned and the new stockholders assumed the executive management positions. In December 31, 1998, after new management was in place, a decision was made to change the Company's principal line of business from a manufacturing business to a high technology company. In connection with the change in business, the Company changed its name from International Food & Beverage, Inc. to Internet Business's International, Inc., and reincorporated the Company on December 8, 1998 in the state of Nevada. The Company, after January 1, 1999 began plans to offer Internet based e-commerce services. In April of 1999, the Company announce it's first e-commerce site and was engaged in the development, operation and marketing of a number of commercial The Company currently has operates two reporting divisions made up of subsidiaries and or divisions of the Company. The Company had three division to fiscal year end of June 2002 which were as follows: Lending on Line (which includes real estate loans and equipment leasing), this division ceased operations in June of 2002, Internet Service Provider (which includes a national Internet access dial-up service, wireless high speed Internet access in Las Vegas, Nevada and Woodland, California, and Internet web design and hosting), and Direct Marketing (which includes the direct marketing of long distance phone services, computers with Internet access, wireless high speed Internet access and bandwidth), and Internet web design hosting). The Company has 4 offices in the US and 1 in Europe and more than 20 employees.

2. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Basis of Presentation

The consolidated financial statements include the accounts of the Company and its wholly owned subsidiaries. Significant intercompany balances and transactions are eliminated in consolidation. Affiliated companies in which the Company does not have a controlling interest are accounted for using the equity method.

The Company's consolidate financials included Global GPP subsidiary that the Company owned 80% of, during the time it operated. From March of 2000 to March of 2001, at which time Global GPP ceased operations. The financial information were included in the E Commerce section, of the Companies financials, until the sale of Ace Optics in the fourth quarter of this fiscal year ended June 30, 2002, and that information is now included in the Other Income along with the Companies Other activities.

Use of Estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosures of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Significant estimates include allowances doubtful accounts and notes receivable and for mortgage loans receivable. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Change in Revenue Recognition

Prior to July 1, 2001 the revenue for the Mortgage Division was booked as follows: the mortgage loan amount funded by the Company was booked as revenue on the date of funding. After that date, the net proceeds received from the sale of the mortgage loan were booked as revenue upon receipt of those funds by the Company. This has a significant impact on the revenue for the Company, but does not impact the net income (loss) for the Company. The financial statements were revised for June 30, 2001, and the companion figures for June 30, 2000 to incorporate the changes of revenue recognition for the Mortgage Division.

Reclassifications

Certain amounts in the prior year financial statements have been reclassified to conform to the current year classification.

Cash and Cash Equivalents

The Company considers all short-term, highly liquid investments with an original maturity date of three months or less to be cash equivalents.

Mortgage Loans Held for Sale

Loans held for sale include originated mortgage loans intended for sale in the secondary market. Loans held for sale are recorded at the lower of aggregate cost or fair value.

Interest Accrual
Accrued interest ceases upon sale of the Mortgage Loan.

Allowance for Loan Losses
The allowance for loan losses represents management's estimate.

Balance Sheet will provide information as follows (if applicable):

Assets
Loans held for sale	XXX
Allowance for loan losses	XXX

SFAS 134 requires mortgage-banking enterprises to classify securities as held-to-maturity, trading, or available-for-sale, depending on the entity's intent and ability to hold the securities. If the mortgage banking enterprise commits to sell a mortgage-backed security before or during the securitization process, the entity must classify the security as trading.

Property and Equipment

Property and equipment is stated at cost and depreciated using the straight-line method over the estimated useful life of the assets, which is generally three to five years for computers and computer related equipment and five to seven years for other non-computer furniture and equipment. Leasehold improvements are amortized using the straight-line method over the shorter of their estimated useful lives or the term of the lease, ranging from one to ten years.

Intangible Assets

Intangible assets consist primarily of acquired customer bases, long-term marketing agreements, goodwill, and other items. Customer bases acquired directly are valued at cost, which approximates fair value at the time of purchase. When material intangible assets, such as customer bases and goodwill are acquired in conjunction with the purchase of a company, IBII undertakes a study by an independent third party to determine the allocation of the total purchase price to the various assets acquired and the liabilities assumed. The costs assigned to intangible assets are being amortized on a straight-line basis over the estimated useful lives of the assets, which is 36 months for substantially all remaining intangible assets as of June 30, 2002. Goodwill and other intangible assets are periodically reviewed for impairment to ensure they are appropriately valued. Conditions that may indicate an impairment issue exists include an economic downturn, changes in the churn rate of subscribers or a change in the assessment of future operation. In the event that a condition is identified that may indicate an impairment issues exists, an assessment is performed using a variety of methodologies, including cash flow analysis, estimates of sales proceeds and independent appraisals.

Additional Paid In Capital

In May of 2002 a 1 share for 10 shares reverse became effective. This was the first part of a Securities Purchase Agreement in conjunction with a stock registration. The Company received $120,000 as a loan to be paid with the registration of stock during the fiscal year. Due to the price drop in the stock after the reverse occurred the registration did not occur. The Loan proceeds booked as long-term debt. The stock reverse difference of shares issued and outstanding is stated as additional paid in capital in the amount of $2,544,624.

By the end of March 2000, the Company issued an additional 7,000,000 shares of the Company's common stock, in a private placement to a qualified investor, which provided to the Company $3,382,560.

No additional paid in capital occurred during the fiscal year ending June 30, 2002.

Revenue Recognition

IBII recognizes revenue when persuasive evidence of an arrangement exists, delivery has occurred, the sales price is fixed or determinable and collectibility is probable.

For ISP services, these criteria are met monthly as our service is provided on a month-to-month basis and collection for the service is generally made within 30 days of the service being provided. Narrowband access revenues consist of monthly fees charged to customers for dial-up Internet access. Narrowband access revenues also include monthly service fees; any associated equipment revenues for the Internet appliance and wireless access services provided as part of the company's marketing initiative and equipment fees. Broadband access revenues consist of fees charged for high-speed, high-capacity access services including DSL, fixed wireless, and dedicated circuit services, installation, termination fees and fees for equipment. Web hosting revenues consist of fees earned by leasing server space and providing web services to companies and individuals wishing to present a web or e-commerce presence. Advertising, content and electronic commerce revenues are recorded as earned.

For lending on line, revenue principally represents closed-loan fees paid by Lenders that closed a loan for a consumer that originated through our Websites, for example, www.gcapgp.com. Closed-loan fees are recognized at the time the lender reports the closed loan to us. This subsidiary was closed down in June 2002. Additional revenue is derived from on line leasing, and is recognized as the services are performed.

Revenue from direct marketing - Fees are earned from products and or services are sold are only recognized as revenue upon receipt of those funds

Source: SAB 101

Advertising Expense

All advertising costs are expensed when incurred.

Concentration of Credit Risk

The Company is subject to credit risk through trade receivables. Monthly Internet access fees and web hosting are generally billed to the customer's credit card, thus reducing the credit risk. The Company routinely assesses the financial strength of significant customers and this assessment, combined with the large number and geographic diversity of its customers, limits the Company's concentration of risk with respect to trade accounts receivable.

Income Taxes

The Company accounts for income taxes under the asset and liability approach where deferred income tax assets and liabilities reflect the future tax consequences, based on enacted tax laws, of the temporary differences between financial and tax reporting at the balance sheet date.

Earnings per Share

Basic earnings per share are computed by dividing net income (loss) by the weighted average of common shares outstanding for the period. Diluted earnings per share are computed by adjusting the weighted average number of shares outstanding during the period for all potentially dilutive shares outstanding during the period.

Recent Accounting Pronouncements

In June 1998, the Financial Accounting Standards Board issued SFAS

133, Accounting for Derivative Investments and Hedging Activities. SFAS 133 establishes new model for accounting for derivatives and hedging activities and supersedes several existing standards. SFAS 133, as mended by SFAS 137 and SFAS 138, is effective for all fiscal quarters of fiscal years beginning after June 15, 2000. The Company does not expect that the adoption of SFAS 133 will have a material impact on its financial statements.

3. Business Combinations

The Company's business combinations have been accounted for using the purchase method, and, accordingly, the total purchase price of each acquired company was allocated to the tangible assets and liabilities and identifiable intangible assets based on their estimated fair values as of the closing date of the acquisition. The excess purchase price over the fair values is recorded as goodwill. Results of operations for the acquired companies are included prospectively from the date of acquisition.

In June 2002 the Company announced the sale of Ace Optics to CRT Corporation for $2,000,000 worth of CRT restricted stock

In June 2002 the Company announced that it plans to divest it self of the Guarantee Capital Group subsidiary, and in anticipation of that occurrence ceased operations of the on line mortgage lending group.

a. Washington State Hotel and Motel Association.

The agreement, entered into in the ordinary course of business, with the Washington State Hotel and Motel Association, dated October 4, 2000, provides the use of the GGPP reverse auction site as a platform for hotel association members purchasing products needed for their different hotel properties. This method of purchasing allows the suppliers of products the chance to sell products to the buyers in competition with one another; the net effect is that the buyers would select the supplier with the lowest per unit cost. This reduces the cost of supplies and thereby should increase their potential of profit. This agreement covers the modification of the GGPP website for use by the Association, and does not involve any payment by the Company. By the end of the fiscal year ended June 2002, this program generated no revenue and the Company has ceased to offer this service.
