Vodafone wins 100m contract with ScottishPower Energy Networks

Vodafone has announced today a new 100 million four-year contract with ScottishPower Energy Networks, SP Energy Networks, to manage and upgrade performance monitoring and fault identification systems across the company's electricity transmission and distribution networks covering more than 3.5 million homes and businesses across the UK.

Under the contract, Vodafone will operate and enhance remote monitoring data systems across more than 110,000 km of overhead lines and underground cables and more than 30,000 substations in Central and Southern Scotland, Merseyside and North Wales. Vodafone will also provide specialist support to SP Energy Networks to help implement new smart grid technologies and integrate generation from renewable sources such as solar and wind. Performance data gathered and analysed by Vodafone will assist SP Energy Networks in prioritising network improvement plans; the company is investing more than £6 billion over the next eight years to upgrade and enhance its infrastructure.

Vodafone Global Enterprise Chief Executive Jan Geldmacher said, "A world-class power distribution network relies on world-class digital communications to function effectively. We welcome the opportunity to work with ScottishPower in support of the company's plans to meet the long-term needs of its customers."

SP Energy Networks Chief Executive Officer, Frank Mitchell, added, "This is a major contract that is designed to enhance our network operations and ultimately benefit our 3.5 million customers. We look forward to working with Vodafone who will provide communications systems that will help us to manage the day-to-day reliability of our network and plan for the future."

Update to Vodafone country-by-country taxation and total contribution to public finances overview

Vodafone today published an update to its voluntary disclosure of the Group's taxation and total contribution to public finances on a country-by-country basis to include financial information for the year ended 31 March 2015.

The report published today provides an updated overview of the Group's total contribution to public finances in each of its countries of operation, including direct and indirect cash taxes paid as well as non-taxation-based government revenue contributions such as spectrum fees.

In 2014/15, Vodafone contributed more than £9.3 billion in cash to public finances in the Group's countries of operation compared to £14.8 billion in 2013/14. The overall reduction in Vodafone's contribution is mainly as a result of the sale of the Group's US interests during 2013/14. In the UK, Vodafone paid £320 million in direct taxes in 2014/15.

Vodafone is one of very few multinational companies worldwide to make a voluntary disclosure on a country-by-country, 'actual cash paid' basis, including details and explanations of tax payments and key taxation matters.

Pioneering new ambulance taxi service could help save at least 2,700 lives of pregnant mothers and babies in rural Tanzania each year

- First-of-its-kind service launched in districts in Tanzania where maternal and infant mortality rates believed to be among highest in the world
- Districts Sengerema and Shinyanga are about the size of Belgium, have a population of at least two million and only 10 ambulances
- Vodafone's M-Pesa used to pay taxi drivers when high-risk expectant mothers, many of whom are teenagers, are brought to hospital

Many hundreds of high-risk pregnant women in an area of Tanzania around the size of Belgium are not surviving pregnancy or are losing their babies as there is no means of getting them to hospital.

In response, a pioneering new toll-free emergency line has been launched by the Vodafone Foundation - alongside its NGO partners Pathfinder International and Touch Foundation and the U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID). The emergency line - equivalent to 112 in Europe, 911 in the US and 999 in the UK - could help save around 225 women's and babies' lives a month, and will see a network of 100 taxi drivers responding to emergency calls, taking pregnant women on what is often a three-hour journey to reach the nearest hospital. Once women arrive at hospital, the emergency taxi drivers are paid using Vodafone's mobile payment service M-Pesa. A trial of the taxi service late last year in an area of Sengerema saved the lives of 323 women and babies.

Previously, there was no way for many pregnant women with serious complications, many of who are teenagers, to get to hospital in the districts of Sengerema and Shinyanga. Despite a population of two million people, only 10 ambulances service the expansive area, leading to large numbers of maternal and infant deaths.

As part of the wider programme, a network of 250 community health workers in Sengerema and Shinyanga have been taught Tanzania's newborn and child health curriculum, and an additional 209 health workers have been trained in life-saving emergency obstetric and newborn care. Touch Foundation helped improve facilities in hospitals, including building two theatres for Caesarean sections.

A mobile application has also been developed for the community health workers, which lists more than 10,000 pregnant women and identifies those who are high risk cases.

Pathfinder International, whose role in the partnership involved working with community health workers and health centres, has separately worked with WeCareSolar to install solar suitcases in 58 facilities for provision of power, making night deliveries possible.

The Vodafone Foundation has been supporting maternal health in Tanzania since 2010. As part of the Vodafone Foundation's Connecting for Good programme, Vodafone partnered with the Comprehensive Community Based Rehabilitation Tanzania (CCBRT) and various NGOs to help cure women who suffer from obstetric fistula. Thanks to the partnership and the use of M-Pesa - CCBRT uses M-Pesa to transfer funds for a patient's travel to hospital - hundreds of women are now receiving the treatment they desperately need. The total number of surgeries increased from 268 in 2010 when M-Pesa was first introduced into the patient referral process to more than 3,000 in 2016, making it the largest fistula repair programme in the world. The maternal health programme in Tanzania is part-funded by USAID and the Swiss Re Foundation.

Vodafone Foundation Director Andrew Dunnett, said: Our maternal health programme is another example of the transformative power of technology. Since 2010, our text to treatment programme has benefitted more than 3,000 women living with debilitating maternal condition obstetric fistula. Now, this pioneering new service will provide a much-needed lifeline for thousands of high-risk pregnant women in Tanzania without access to emergency healthcare.

Pathfinder International President and CEO Purnima Mane, said: Our work in Tanzania is a true testament to our efforts to create better health outcomes for women worldwide. Through our partnership with Vodafone, we have been able to reach pregnant women with behaviour change interventions and appointment reminders as well as provide health facilities with everything from trainings and services to solar lighting. As a result, we have reached more than 15,000 women and have seen a 53 per cent increase year over year in facility-based deliveries. We are looking forward to this next component of our program and the support it will provide to pregnant women in Tanzania - especially those deemed high risk.

USAID Tanzania Acting Health Officer Director Bethany Haberer, said: We can all be proud of the progress that is in evidence today, yet much work remains to be done. Having achieved remarkable healthcare results in Sengerema, we need to consider the elements of this programme that can be replicated, taken to scale, and sustained - all with increased support from the Government of Tanzania.

About Vodafone Foundation

The Vodafone Foundation's Connecting for Good programme combines Vodafone's charitable giving and technology to make a difference in the world. Globally, the Vodafone Foundation supports projects that are focused on delivering public benefit through the use of mobile technology across the areas of health, education and disaster relief. The Vodafone Foundation invests in the communities in which Vodafone operates and is at the centre of a network of global and local social investment programmes. The Vodafone Foundation is a UK registered charity, registered charity number 1089625.

About Pathfinder International

Pathfinder International <http://www.pathfinder.org/> is driven by the conviction that all people, regardless of where they live, have the right to decide whether and when to have children, to exist free from fear and stigma, and to lead the lives they choose. Since 1957, we have partnered with local governments, communities, and health systems in developing countries to remove barriers to critical sexual and reproductive health services. Together, we expand access to contraception, promote healthy pregnancies, save women's lives, and stop the spread of new HIV infections, wherever the need is most urgent. Our work ensures millions of women, men, and young people are able to choose their own paths forward.

About Touch Foundation

Touch Foundation <http://www.touchfoundation.org/> improves the health of the Tanzanian people by strengthening the health system across different levels of care. Touch further expand its impact across Tanzania and beyond by sharing scalable models with the local and international public health community. Touch's commitment to addressing Tanzania's healthcare crisis is coupled with a philosophy that international development should not foster dependency, but rather work to effect long-lasting positive change. Touch prioritizes key areas of intervention and designs programs based on robust needs analyses. Touch then acts as a catalyst, facilitating collaboration between local and international partners to bring together the technical expertise required to drive improvements in Tanzania's healthcare landscape. Touch has developed and implemented its signature Treat & Train program, focusing on two key objectives: improving the quantity and quality of healthcare workers and enhancing healthcare delivery mechanisms. The Treat & Train program establishes an integrated healthcare and education network across facilities in the Lake Zone of Tanzania, which has a population of nearly 17 million.

About USAID

USAID is the lead U.S. Government agency working to end extreme global poverty and enable resilient, democratic societies to realize their potential. ### Vodafone and Philips join forces for connected lighting and smart city services

Frankfurt, Germany - Vodafone announced today a new agreement to become a global Internet of Things (IoT) managed connectivity partner for Philips Lighting, a Royal Philips (NYSE: PHG, AEX: PHIA) company and the global leader in lighting. Under the agreement, the two companies will enable city authorities worldwide to implement smart street lighting systems which will be connected wirelessly, saving energy and making maintenance easier and more efficient.

The Philips CityTouch street lighting management system will use Vodafone's world-leading machine-to-machine (M2M) network to connect individual light points. Every connected street lamp will contain a Vodafone M2M SIM. City authorities can then monitor and manage lighting through a user-friendly and highly flexible system while engineers will be able to check performance, identify faults and control the lighting remotely.

The joint offering allows city authorities to create an infrastructure that is easily scalable, and will be able to support other smart city applications in future.

Vodafone M2M Director, Erik Brenneis, said: "Lighting plays a key role in the smart city. Our agreement with Philips will see this technology transforming cities across the world backed by Vodafone's world-leading innovation, technologies and networks."

Bill Bien, SVP, Head of Strategy and Marketing, at Philips Lighting added: "Just less than 12% of the world's street lights are LED and less than 2% are connected. We are at the start of a new era which will see highly energy efficient connected street lighting become the backbone of most smart cities. Robust, reliable wireless connectivity will help make this happen, linking streetlights with sensors, devices and management systems. By partnering with Vodafone we can work together to take light beyond illumination, helping to make cities more energy efficient, safer and ultimately more liveable."

About Philips CityTouch:

CityTouch is an end-to-end street lighting management system that integrates connected devices and specialized services to transform cities' lighting operations. Increasingly, stand-alone LED street lights are being connected and made intelligent using Philips CityTouch Ready street luminaires or by adding a Philips CityTouch connector node to existing street luminaires. Such connectivity offers a number of benefits:

- Typically additional 30-40% energy savings above the savings made by using LED lighting, as the connected lights can be dimmed or turned up as required the right light level, at the right time, in the right place.
- Reduced maintenance cost and time from days to hours as real-time information on the status of each light point is relayed to the operator who can schedule crews to a precise location. No more driving around looking for faults.
- Network setup and commissioning happens automatically and when the CityTouch Ready luminaire or a connector node is installed it starts transmitting location data and operational information securely over the Vodafone network.

Vodafone expands focus on enterprise security with creation of new dedicated global line of business

Vodafone announced today that it has created a new global line of business dedicated to providing its enterprise customers with world-leading cyber security technologies and specialist advice and support. The new Vodafone Enterprise Security Services (VESS) line of business will bring together the Group's current portfolio of security products under the leadership of Simon Church who will join the company in April as VESS Chief Executive reporting to Vodafone Group Enterprise Chief Executive Nick Jeffery. Simon Church was previously chief executive at NTT Com Security, formerly Integralis, and has held senior roles at Verisign and NetIQ.

Cyber security has become one of the biggest areas of concern for business with increased focus being driven by government initiatives, new legislation and high profile data breaches, recent market reports highlight that global spending in information security could reach over $75.4 billion<sup>1</sup>. VESS will offer an expanded range of products, services and support in areas including:

- cloud-based protection for business-critical applications;
- network perimeter management;
- threat detection and response; and
- security assessments and advisory services focused on customer security policy development, risk management and compliance processes.

VESS will work closely with a number of strategic security partners. This will include building on its existing relationship with BAE Systems Applied Intelligence to develop new products, services and capabilities designed to ensure Vodafone's customers benefit from effective and reliable protection against constantly evolving cyber risks.

Vodafone Group Enterprise chief executive Nick Jeffery said: Our customers know they face a wide range of cyber threats, many of which could materially impact their operations and brand. We know they're looking for trusted partners with the right expertise to stand with them and help them secure their operations from end to end. Vodafone Enterprise Security Services is designed to meet that important need. Under the experienced leadership of Simon Church, VESS will be completely focused on helping our customers protect their businesses in an unpredictable world.

VODAFONE AND SFR RENEW PARTNER MARKET AGREEMENT FOR FOUR YEARS

Partnership expanded to cover Altice Group operations in the Dominican Republic

Vodafone and SFR have renewed their partner market agreement for France for a further four years to 2020. In addition, Vodafone announces it has signed a strategic framework agreement with Altice for the Dominican Republic.

The renewed SFR agreement builds on the successful partnership between the two companies in France since 2002 and will ensure that SFR's corporate and consumer customers will continue to benefit from enhanced, seamless roaming services across Vodafone's operations in 26 countries and the 56 other countries where Vodafone partners with mobile networks.

Vodafone's consumer and enterprise customers will continue to benefit from SFR's strong presence in the French market. SFR's 4G services are expected to cover more than 90% of the population of France by 2017.

Today, Vodafone has also signed a new Partner Market agreement with Altice in the Dominican Republic. Customers of Altice's operations will now be able to roam seamlessly onto Vodafone's network and Vodafone's customers travelling to the Dominican Republic will enjoy full roaming services on Altice's network.

Vodafone Partner Markets Chief Executive Stefano Gastaut said: We are pleased to extend our long-standing relationship with SFR for another four years, enabling us to continue to bring our customers the best of Vodafone and SFR. I am also delighted that our partnership is now expanded to encompass Altice's operations in the Dominican Republic, which means that Vodafone is now present in 82 countries, of which 57 are partners.

Pascal Rialland, Head of B2B Altice said: This strong collaboration with Vodafone, initiated more than 14 years ago, confirms SFR's leading position in the French telecoms market. The combined footprint of both companies, enabling our customers to connect in more than 80 countries, offers a fantastic worldwide opportunity.

WARREN FINEGOLD TO RETIRE FROM GROUP EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

Vodafone today announced that Warren Finegold, its Group Business Development Director, has informed the company of his intention to retire from the Group Executive Committee on 30 June 2016. Warren has agreed to act as an adviser to Vodafone's Board and Executive Committee on future strategic projects from July 2016.

Warren has made a significant contribution to Vodafone's strategic development since he joined the Executive Committee in April 2006, most notably through the $130 billion disposal of Vodafone's interest in Verizon Wireless, the acquisitions of Kabel Deutschland and Ono and the acquisition of Hutchison's interest in India.

Before joining Vodafone, Warren was the company's principal M&A adviser as a Managing Director of UBS Investment Bank and Head of its Technology team. Warren's association with Vodafone began in 1988, when he was part of the investment banking team that took the company public. Subsequently he has advised on most of the transactions that shaped the Group including the acquisition of Mannesmann.

Vodafone Group Chief Executive Vittorio Colao said "Warren has been an outstanding colleague and adviser, who has made an immense contribution to Vodafone over nearly thirty years. I would like to thank him for his wisdom, insight, commitment and valued strategic advice. I wish him every happiness in his retirement and look forward to his continuing involvement as an adviser to Vodafone in the years ahead.
