Item 8.01. Other Events.

As disclosed in the joint proxy statement/prospectus filed on April 27, 2011 and mailed to Rock-Tenn shareholders on or about April 29, 2011 (the Joint Proxy Statement/Prospectus), Rock-Tenn Company (RockTenn) and Smurfit-Stone Container Corporation (Smurfit-Stone) have entered into a definitive Agreement and Plan of Merger providing for the acquisition of Smurfit-Stone by RockTenn, which we refer to as the merger agreement. Pursuant to the terms of the merger agreement, Smurfit-Stone will merge with and into a wholly owned limited liability company subsidiary of RockTenn, which we refer to as the merger. A special meeting of Smurfit-Stone stockholders will be held on May 27, 2011 to consider and vote on a proposal to approve and adopt the merger agreement and a special meeting of Rock-Tenn shareholders will be held on May 27, 2011 to consider and vote on a proposal to approve the issuance of shares of RockTenn common stock to Smurfit-Stone stockholders pursuant to the merger agreement. As disclosed in the Joint Proxy Statement/Prospectus, RockTenn, Sam Acquisition, LLC and Smurfit-Stone, as well as the members of Smurfit-Stone's board of directors, were named as defendants in several lawsuits brought by Smurfit-Stone stockholders challenging the proposed merger and seeking, among other things, injunctive relief to enjoin the defendants from completing the merger. The plaintiffs in these lawsuits have made certain allegations concerning the sufficiency of the disclosures contained in the Joint Proxy Statement/Prospectus. Although Rock-Tenn believes that the lawsuits, including the disclosure-related allegations, are without merit, Rock-Tenn is filing this additional information in order to address certain of the allegations. Rock-Tenn does not consider this additional information to be material.

On July 28, 2010, a meeting of the Smurfit-Stone board of directors was held. The Levin Group, which had been a consultant to Smurfit-Stone since 2006, presented an Initial Strategic Review to the members of the Smurfit-Stone board of directors. Among other things, the Levin Group presentation set forth various strategic operating alternatives, including alterations to Smurfit-Stone's then-existing mill footprint. The operating model that assumed Smurfit-Stone remained configured as it was (the Base Case) correlated to 2011 and 2014 illustrative implied per share prices of $21 and $28, respectively. Using RISI pricing, the Base Case yielded 2011 and 2014 illustrative implied per share prices of $13 and $17, respectively. An alternative operating model that modified the mill footprint (the First Proposed Alternative Footprint) correlated to 2011 and 2014 illustrative implied per share prices of $35 and $45, respectively. An alternative operating model that modified the mill footprint more aggressively (the Second Proposed Alternative Footprint) correlated to 2011 and 2014 illustrative implied per share prices of $40 and $52, respectively. The assumptions underlying the operating models were preliminary, contingent, illustrative, and were not vetted by Smurfit-Stone. In addition, after further inquiry, Smurfit-Stone determined that the Second Proposed Alternative Footprint was not commercially feasible and had not yet been able to determine whether the First Proposed Alternative Footprint was commercially feasible. In advance of a meeting of the special committee of the Smurfit-Stone board of directors on December 15, 2010, Lazard Frères & Co. LLC (Lazard), at the request of the special committee, supplied the Smurfit-Stone special committee with Lazard's then preliminary discounted cash flow analysis for Smurfit-Stone and, without performing any further analysis, compared the implied equity value derived from such analysis to the illustrative implied per share prices set forth in the Levin Group's presentation for the First Proposed Alternative Footprint, including a comparison with the present value of such implied per share prices in the Levin Group's presentation using an 11% equity discount rate as well as the 9% discount rate used by the Levin Group.

As disclosed in the Joint Proxy Statement/Prospectus, for the informational purposes of the board of directors and the special committee, among other analyses, Lazard performed an illustrative analysis of the implied present values of the hypothetical future stock price of Smurfit-Stone, which is designed to provide an indication of the present value of a theoretical future value of a company's equity as a function of such company's future estimated EBITDA (as defined in the Joint Proxy Statement/Prospectus). In conducting this analysis, Lazard performed the calculations described in the Joint Proxy Statement/Prospectus under the heading "THE MERGER - Opinion of Financial Advisor to the Smurfit-Stone Board of Directors - Present Value of Hypothetical Future Stock Prices Analysis." In addition to the analysis relating to the estimated theoretical future per share prices of Smurfit-Stone common stock as of December 31, 2013 described in that section of the Joint Proxy Statement/Prospectus, Lazard also performed an illustrative analysis of the implied present values of the estimated theoretical future per share prices of Smurfit-Stone common stock as of December 31, 2011 and December 31, 2012, applying a forward multiple of enterprise value to Adjusted EBITDA (as defined in the Joint Proxy Statement/Prospectus) of 4.5x to 6.0x (an illustrative range based on the then current Smurfit-Stone forward multiple and higher multiples used for illustrative purposes only) to estimated Adjusted EBITDA for Smurfit-Stone's fiscal year ending December 31, 2012 and 2013 provided in the Smurfit-Stone management projections, deducting from the resulting amounts the projected net debt as of December 31, 2011 and 2012, respectively, and then calculated the resulting range of implied per share equity values and discounted that range to December 31, 2010 using an equity discount rate of 11%. The result of those analyses implied an equity value per share of Smurfit-Stone common stock of $29.34 to $39.41 for 2012, and $28.31 to $38.67 for 2011. The per-share merger consideration of $35.00 (based on the closing price of RockTenn's common shares on January 21, 2011) fell within these ranges.

Based on the closing share price of RockTenn common stock on the NYSE on May 13, 2011, the estimated value per share of the merger consideration for a share of Smurfit-Stone common stock had the merger closed on such date would have been $39.55. See the Section of the Proxy Statement entitled "Summary - The Merger - Consideration to be Received in the Merger by Smurfit-Stone Stockholders."

As disclosed in the Joint Proxy Statement/Prospectus, one of the factors supporting the Smurfit-Stone board of directors' approval of the merger agreement was the directors' belief that the merger is more favorable to Smurfit-Stone stockholders than any other reasonably available strategic alternative. This view was based on the Smurfit-Stone board of directors' regular review and evaluation of Smurfit-Stone's business strategy. This view was also based on the directors' belief that any other party interested in and capable of acquiring Smurfit-Stone had ample opportunity to, and would likely have already, approached Smurfit-Stone. First, as discussed in the Joint Proxy Statement/Prospectus, both shortly prior to and during Smurfit-Stone's bankruptcy proceedings, Smurfit-Stone had been exploring the possibility of an investment transaction or acquisition or strategic transaction with various third parties, but none of these third parties was willing to proceed with a transaction. Second, from time to time over the several years prior to the bankruptcy proceedings, there had been various non-specific, informal, exploratory contacts between Smurfit-Stone and third parties regarding possible strategic transactions. Third, upon its emergence from bankruptcy, Smurfit-Stone did not adopt a classified board, a shareholder rights plan, or various other takeover defenses. Fourth, Wall Street analysts had repeatedly speculated that Smurfit-Stone might be a possible takeover candidate. Finally, Smurfit-Stone had received a $29 per share proposal from Party A shortly before it was approached by RockTenn. On or around December 17, 2010, Party A contacted Smurfit-Stone to indicate that it was having difficulty achieving a valuation that would justify a significantly increased offer price from its initial offer of $29 per share. A representative from Party A's financial advisor confirmed this position to a representative from Lazard. On December 21, 2010, a representative from Party A's financial advisor informed a representative from Lazard that Party A had determined not to continue to pursue a transaction with Smurfit-Stone at that time.

As disclosed in the Joint Proxy Statement/Prospectus, Smurfit-Stone management provided estimated financial information for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2010, and prospective financial information for the fiscal years ending December 31, 2011 through December 31, 2015, to Lazard in connection with the preparation of its opinion addressing the fairness of the merger. As discussed in the Joint Proxy Statement/Prospectus, such prospective financial information is based in part upon the views of Smurfit-Stone management relating to future demand, product prices, raw material and energy costs and other variables, which are inherently difficult to predict. Accordingly, some of these projections differ from projections offered by some industry data sources. Smurfit-Stone management projected linerboard prices per ton of $645, $632, $636, $636, and $636, for the years ending December 31, 2011, December 31, 2012, December 31, 2013, December 31, 2014, and December 31, 2015, respectively. Management's linerboard projections were based on estimated pricing for a blend of linerboard products reflecting the specific types of linerboard that Smurfit-Stone produces. Smurfit-Stone management also projected recycled fiber/OCC costs per ton of $166, $159, $159, $169, and $184, for the years ending December 31, 2011, December 31, 2012, December 31, 2013, December 31, 2014, and December 31, 2015, respectively. These projections were based on the knowledge and experience of the Smurfit-Stone management team and reflected its then-current best judgment.
