Robert G. Jones, President and Chief Executive Officer:

Following my brief overview, I will close my remarks with giving some context around 2012 in an attempt to assist you with building your models for 2012. Given the complexity of our financials as it relates to both the Monroe and Integra acquisitions we felt that would be both important and appreciated. I should also mention that during our Q and A session we will be very happy to answer any further clarifying questions you have on our recent acquisition of Indiana Bank and Trust

Overall, we would characterize 2011 as a year we made major strides towards our strategic imperatives. With our recently announced partnership with Indiana Bank and Trust we feel we made more progress

Christopher A. Wolking, Senior Vice President and Chief Financial Officer:

We announced last week an increase in our quarterly dividend from seven cents to nine cents per share and the acquisition of Indiana Community Bancorp. At the closing of the acquisition, our TCE ratio, based on our current balance sheet and earnings projections, should be approximately 8.27% which we expect will continue to be at or slightly above our peer group average. While our Old National guideline on the graph is 6%, currently we feel that operating with TCE ratio in the range of 7 to 7.5% is consistent with the risk on our balance sheet, our economic outlook and the potential changes in the regulatory environment

(Q Joseph McEver Hodgson Suntrust Robinson Humphrey, Inc.): Got you. And Chris on the net interest margin, can you comment at all what you think the pending [Indiana Community Bancorp] acquisition, what sort of effect it might have on the NIM for the back-half of this year?

(A Christopher A. Wolking): I don't have that kind of analysis at this time. As we move forward, I think we'll continue to try to communicate like we've done in the past once the marks get finalized and things like that but, we've got a ways to go.
