Mr. Koyuncu's business acumen extended outside of the United State when in 2005 he started one of Turkey's first independent telecommunications companies, Unitel Telecom, which was acquired by another telecom company within two years. The core philosophy of each company pioneered by Mr. Koyuncu, which have all reached multi-million dollar annual revenues under his direction, is to acquire as much specialized knowledge of each market and then apply the best technology and most innovative strategy to conquer it.
