Lonestar Group Holdings: Lone Star Group Holdings announces expanded business direction (January 01, 2007)

Lonestar Group Holdings has spent the past two and a half months or so restructuring its business model and the company - as well as planning its spin off subsidiary strategy for its acquired companies.

At the end of December, Lonestar Group Holdings (LSGH.OB) announced a restructuring of its business model “to focus on shareholder appreciation and value,” a statement by the company said. Lonestar currently has business interests in insurance, natural gas, real estate, business development and financial services.

“Our business' gross profitability is expected to grow over the coming quarters due to the fact that we have our core businesses in position to profit in both sales and development.”

“Lonestar Holdings will operate as a business development company that incubates, develops, and acquires portfolio companies in various industries to maximize shareholder value through eventual public offering, sale, or merger, acquisition or similar business combination,” So, for all practical purposes, ownership of Lonestar Holdings will lead to ownership in not only Lakeside but future spin-offs and shareholder dividends from both companies.”

Lonestar Group Holdings: Lone Star Group Holdings announces special shareholder dividend (January 11, 2007)

Lone Star Group Holdings (OTCBB: LSGH) formally US Energy Holdings (OTCBB: USEH) board of directors decided to increase the shareholders position by issuing a 1 for 1 restricted dividend for shareholders of record on January 31, 2007

Lone Star Group Holdings through its expanded business plan is engaging an additional four acquisitions with the first of four now moving to LOI, the board of directors has decided to increase shareholder value in all planned acquisitions by issuing this first of several expected dividends.

The plan of Lone Star Holdings is to acquire or bring in several subsidiary companies under the parent with the purpose of “Spinning” those companies out into their own public entity. The benefit of the parent shareholder(s) of record is that for a single investment they will receive additional newly issued share(s) in the “Spin Out” subsidiaries.

(Example: "Spin Out") - Any corporation that wishes to grant freedom to its subsidiary to tap the power of the financial markets has the choice of "Spin Off". It can "Spin Off" the subsidiary by selling its entire stake to the public -- usually as a special stock dividend and creating a new company with a separate and independent board of directors. It also can take an equity carve out, issuing or selling a portion of its equity in the subsidiary to the public and (usually) keeping a majority stake in the new company, which has a separate board of directors, assets, liabilities and officers.

(Example: "Dividend") - A portion of company's quarterly profit paid to its shareholders in the form of cash or stock.
