Dear CPI Supplier:

We are pleased to inform you that Comtech Telecommunications Corp. and CPI International, Inc. announced today that Comtech will acquire CPI. We are very excited about the transaction, and believe it is a win-win for both companies. The combination of Comtech and CPI resources will enable us to provide increased customer focus and to develop innovative new products for both our defense and commercial customers.

Comtech's traveling wave tube amplifier product line and CPI's Satcom high-power amplifier products complement each other, and together bring two innovative providers in the billion dollar satellite ground station power components industry. CPI's radio frequency, microwave and power processing products add a new dimension to Comtech's product offerings. Our respective organizations have historically excelled by focusing on leading technology and customer responsiveness, and we believe this combination will only strengthen that culture.

We intend to maintain a sharp focus on all customers. We plan no interruptions in any scheduled or committed rollouts, and intend to continue to support all existing Comtech and CPI products and services as well as honor all existing agreements with customers.

We recognize that our suppliers have been, and must continue to be, critical partners in our success. We have always used those components that allow us to provide the best valued products to our customers. We expect to continue this approach, and look to our supplier partners to continue to support us as we provide the highest level of satisfaction possible to our customers.

For your convenience, I have attached a copy of a press release that outlines why this transaction is so exciting. Until the transaction closes, Comtech and CPI will remain separate and independent companies, and in the interim, it will be business as usual for Comtech and CPI.

We look forward to speaking with you in the near future. As always, if you have any questions on this matter, please do not hesitate to ask.

We look forward to enhancing our partnership with you and hope you share our enthusiasm about our company's exciting future.

CPI cancels previously scheduled earnings call

PALO ALTO, Calif. May 10, 2010 - CPI International, Inc. (Nasdaq: CPII) announced the signing of a definitive merger agreement with Comtech Telecommunications Corp. (Nasdaq: CMTL) under which Comtech will purchase CPI in a cash and stock transaction with an enterprise value of approximately $472.3 million. Comtech will fund the acquisition by redeploying approximately $372.0 million of its existing cash plus the issuance of approximately 4.4 million shares of Comtech common stock. All existing CPI debt is anticipated to be repaid upon the closing of the transaction.

Based on the May 7, 2010 closing price of Comtech stock which was $31.06, CPI shareholders will receive a combination of cash and stock that is currently valued at approximately $16.40 per CPI common share. This amount represents a premium of 25.7 percent as compared to the last closing price of CPI common stock and 21.3 percent as compared to the last 30 trading day average closing price.

The ultimate amount of consideration that a CPI shareholder will receive will be equal to a combination of $9.00 in cash plus a fraction of Comtech common stock equal to $8.10 divided by the average closing price of Comtech common stock over a specified period of time prior to closing, provided that the fraction shall not be greater than 0.2382 nor less than 0.2132. CPI shareholders will benefit from an immediate premium while sharing in the future growth of the combined companies. Furthermore, our customers will benefit from greater resources and more diverse product offerings, and our employees will benefit from being part of a larger more diversified company.

Fred Kornberg, President and Chief Executive Officer of Comtech, said, "We are excited to have reached this agreement with CPI and believe this combination is beneficial to the stakeholders of both companies. CPI is a unique business and a leading global supplier of vacuum electron devices which are used in hundreds of critical commercial and military applications. The acquisition is a significant step in our strategy of developing a one-stop shopping approach for RF microwave products. The combination will allow us to unite our companies' resources to develop and bring new and innovative products to market and to our customers. We welcome CPI's talented workforce to the Comtech team and are excited about the future."

Mr. Kornberg and Mr. Caldarelli jointly stated, "We intend to thoughtfully and actively address our customers' needs as we integrate our complementary and diverse product lines. We plan no interruptions in any scheduled or committed rollouts from either company, and we intend to continue to support all existing Comtech and CPI products and services. We anticipate honoring all existing agreements with customers, VARs, distributors, OEMs and other strategic partners."

CPI's senior executive management and corporate team are expected to stay in their current or similar roles and will work directly with Comtech management after the transaction closes.

Closing Conditions and Shareholder Voting Requirements

The transaction is subject to a number of customary regulatory and other closing conditions. The transaction is not subject to approval by Comtech shareholders nor is it subject to any financing conditions. The transaction is subject to CPI shareholder approval.
