Item 8.01. Other Events.

On May 29, 2007, the board of directors of TD AMERITRADE Holding Corporation received a letter from two hedge funds, JANA Partners and S.A.C. Capital Advisors. In the letter, JANA Partners and S.A.C. Capital notified TD AMERITRADE that their funds have an aggregate economic interest in approximately 50 million shares of TD AMERITRADE, amounting to 8.4% of the outstanding stock, and in other correspondence notified TD AMERITRADE that each of them has sought regulatory approval to acquire additional shares in excess of $600 million. To the knowledge of TD AMERITRADE, neither JANA Partners nor S.A.C. Capital has yet publicly disclosed this increased ownership. In the letter attached below, these funds indicate they wish to see TD AMERITRADE pursue a business combination with one of its industry peers.

The board of directors continually reviews its business plan and stand-alone strategy, as well as potential strategic combinations with peers in the industry. TD AMERITRADE is highly focused on the execution of its organic growth strategy, as shown by its strong second quarter performance: record client assets of $282 billion and new account growth up 52 percent from the previous quarter. In addition, TD AMERITRADE analyzes all uses of cash for the best return of value to shareholders. During the last quarter, TD AMERITRADE utilized approximately $50 million to repurchase 3.0 million shares of its stock, and since the stock buy-back program was initiated, through March 31, 2007, TD AMERITRADE has invested approximately $247 million in repurchasing 14.5 million shares at a weighted average price of $16.98 per share.

TD AMERITRADE has a long history of growing through successful acquisitions and organic growth. TD AMERITRADE has publicly stated its intent to increase shareholder value by focusing on the long-term investor, active trader and registered investment adviser. The benefits of this strategy are regularly reviewed and re-evaluated in detail by the board in consultation with its financial advisor, Merrill Lynch. The board and its financial advisor also regularly review whether possible mergers and acquisitions could augment this strategy to create greater value for shareholders. Industry consolidation is an important consideration of the board, and TD AMERITRADE has publicly stated that it is interested in growing via combination, at the right time and if it can reach agreement for the right strategic fit. TD AMERITRADE has had and expects to continue to have discussions with its peers in the industry regarding mergers and acquisitions and believes that to be successful they must occur at the right time and be consistent with TD AMERITRADE's business strategy.

When the board considers and studies possible mergers and acquisitions, it also evaluates, with independent counsel, Wilson Sonsini Goodrich & Rosati, the decision making process based on the duties owed to all shareholders. The board, in consultation with its financial and legal advisors, always makes business decisions on an informed basis, in good faith and in the best interests of shareholders. The board has formed a standing mergers and acquisitions committee, comprised of the three outside independent directors, one designee of the Toronto-Dominion Bank and one designee of the Ricketts shareholders, to evaluate, review and monitor acquisitions, mergers and strategic investments because the board and management frequently evaluate and engage in these transactions.

Public disclosure shows that The Toronto-Dominion Bank owns approximately 40% and the Ricketts own approximately 21% of the outstanding capital stock of TD AMERITRADE. Under the terms of the stockholders agreement entered into in connection with the shareholder approved acquisition of TD Waterhouse, the board is comprised of twelve members, five designated by The Toronto-Dominion Bank, three designated by the Ricketts, three outside independent directors and our chief executive officer. The ownership position and limited governance rights of The Toronto-Dominion Bank are disclosed to shareholders in SEC filings.
