Converium Holding Ltd, Zug

Zug, Switzerland - September 28, 2005 - Converium revises its loss estimate for hurricane Katrina.

Based on an expected insured industry loss of US$ 50 billion, Converium now estimates gross losses from hurricane Katrina to be in the range of US$ 20 - 40 million. This estimate compares with a range of US$ 10 - 20 million given early September based on an expected industry loss of US$ 25 billion.

The revised loss amount represents about 1 - 2% of Converium's shareholders' funds as of June 30, 2005 and is reflective of the Company's reduced exposure in North America as a result of having placed Converium Reinsurance (North America) Inc. into run-off as well as the decision to write North American business from Zurich on a selective basis only.

Given the structure of Converium's exposure any ultimate industry loss in excess of US$ 50 billion would have a disproportionately low impact on the Company's loss estimate.
